

As a leading international socio-economic consultancy, Exodea Europe has undertaken successful commissions on behalf of a range of organisations that have required the development and delivery of education and training initiatives. We have also developed an in-depth understanding of the education system in Ireland, and have undertaken ground-breaking research to map the various levels of accreditation that currently exist in the country.

We know the value of education training and skilling, and have undertaken research and studies into aspects of all of these levels, as well as having been responsible for the design and delivery of specialist training programmes for the largest Skillnet network in Ireland.
